

Connecting Every Conversation

Creating a Flexible Workplace for Collaboration and Enterprise Events

Client: Global Payment Technology Company

Industry: Financial Services / Technology

Location: New York City, US

As workplace strategies evolved, the client set out to transform an entire floor into a technology hub supporting hybrid collaboration, executive communications, and enterprise events. The workplace needed to deliver a seamless experience across meeting rooms, training spaces, and event venues while balancing architectural design with the complexities of an occupied Manhattan high-rise.

WHAT WE DELIVERED

- A connected workplace ecosystem supporting hybrid collaboration and enterprise communications
- Broadcast-ready event venue with centralized production capabilities
- Consistent meeting experiences across training, collaboration, and executive spaces
- Retractable LED displays and digital signage integrated into the workplace architecture
- Scalable AV network infrastructure supporting long-term workplace evolution

IMPACT

The completed technology hub brings collaboration, communication, and enterprise events together within a single connected workplace. Employees and leadership benefit from intuitive technology that supports everything from daily hybrid meetings to company-wide broadcasts. With a flexible, scalable foundation, the organization is well positioned to support evolving workplace strategies and future business needs.
